SENIOR VOICE RECITAL

VICKI BELL, Contralto

PATRICIA DANIELS, Piano

CENTENNIAL LECTURE HALL, NOVEMBER 20, 1968, 7:30 p.m.

Magnificat

J. S. Bach

"Esurientes implevit bonis"

"Et exultavit spiritus meus"

Cantata No. 5

G. P. Telemann

"Am andern Sonntage nach dem Feste der heiligen drei Könige"

Recitative

Through our adversities we must show God's love. Go forth in his will and in hope be happy, in affliction quiet.

Aria

In quiet hope I will overcome my fate.

Recitative

Repent now and God shall bind up your wounds. Turn away from this lustful life and proclaim God's love to his children.

Aria

Eternal love, help me to love my enemies as my friends.

Sister Mary Sheila Nolan - Violinist

Dämmerung senkte sich von oben

J. Brahms, Op. 59

No. 1, 2, 3, 8

Night is falling and dark shadows play mystically in the moonlight. The cool softness of night creeps through the eyes into the heart.

Auf dem See

The sweet peace of heaven steals over the splendor of the world. Troubled hearts, give up your sorrow; let life and love abound. Reflect all the beauty earth can show.

Regenlied

This wistful song recalls my lost childhood through the echoing raindrops.

Dein blaues Auge

Let me seek a new life through the clear, cool blue eyes of my beloved.

(Intermission - 10 minutes)

La Maja Dolorosa (The Grieving Lady)
Three Tonadillas

E. Granados

- I. Cruel death has robbed me of my love and it is death for me to live without him.
- II. My love is not dead! How could I exist without him? The whole world is weeping and sad, but my love will still be mine.
- III. I have wonderful memories of my love, for in deep love suffering is sweet. When I recall my love, the dreams come surging back of a time gone by.

"The Empty-Handed Traveler" from The Consul

G. Menotti

Four Last Songs

R. Vaughn-Williams

"Procris"

"Tired"

"Hands, Eyes, and Heart"

"Menelaus"
